

The 27th East Asia Joint Symposium Instruction Manual

1. The symposium website has been launched. For the latest information, please visit here:
<https://www.ims.u-tokyo.ac.jp/imsut/en/27thEAJS>
2. Please note that all dates and times of the EAJS program and manual are in Japan Time.
3. All sessions will be recorded for archival purposes. Please note that on-demand streaming service is NOT available for this event.
4. The EAJS secretariat will take some screenshots of the gallery view. These images will be used on our website and public relations magazine at a later date along with the summary report of the symposium. If you do not wish to be included in any such images, please let us know in advance.
5. Please note that participants are NOT allowed to make video recordings or take screenshots.
6. PIs, young scientists, and students are expected not only to give their own presentations but to participate in all timetabled sessions as much as possible. In particular, young scientists and students are strongly advised not to leave the event until the final day as an award ceremony takes place at almost the very end of the program.

<Voting for the award>

1. The secretariat will email those who have the right to vote on Wednesday, October 27th, to notify them of the site for voting.
2. Award winners will be chosen by open ballot. Please note that you cannot vote for the presenters from the institution to which you belong. If you cast a ballot for anybody from your own institution, your ballot will be recognized as invalid, and will not be counted.
3. For the Best Presenter Award, we ask you to select the top three entries each from the young scientist session and the student session. Please evaluate the quality of the candidates' oral presentations and poster discussions in each session. According to the vote counting result, the best one in each category will be chosen as the winner.
4. For the Best Discusser Award, we ask you to select the top three entries each from the participants of the young scientist session and the participants of the student session. Please evaluate the quality of the question-and-answer discussion with PI presenters during the PI session. According to the vote counting result, the best one in each category will be chosen as the winner.
5. Deadline for voting: Thursday, October 28th, 18:30(JST)
